

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

Compositions are described which are useful in preventing the loss of tight epithelial cell junctions upon topical application. Such compositions include one or more carbohydrates in an amount effective to prevent the loss of tight cell junctions and hence improve the management of tissue health.